Summer Reading Rock Stars

Congratulations to Immanuel Lutheran for winning our summer reading challenge! Immanuel Lutheran raised their summer reading participation from 2014 by 120%.

Congratulations to all our schools for a great summer of participation! This year we had 1,335 children and teens participate in the Summer Reading Club. The librarians had a great time working with all of the students who came into the library this summer.

Homework Resources

CMPL has a number of homework resources available to you for school instruction but also to aid your child/student during the evening hours when a teacher is not available.

Tutor.com
Your students or children can access this great database from 4 pm–11 pm, 7 days a week with just your library card! This database gives access to live tutors who can work together with your child in real time. Tutors chat with the student and use the interactive whiteboard to draw out the problem. Tutor.com also has the ability to share files and upload documents so that the tutor can work on your document with you to make improvements.

PowerKnowledge Science
The PowerKnowledge collection is designed for elementary school learners. This collection includes PK Earth and Space, PK Life Science, and PK Physical Science as well as offers an extensive array of resources to help teachers effectively use this resource. In the PowerKnowledge collection you will find correlations and promotional materials, web widgets and buttons, lesson plans and reproducibles, science fair projects and experiments.

Book Kits
October 6: Reading with Preschoolers

November 3: Caregiver Interactions: What You Say Is Important

Watch for the series to continue in January 2016.

Live Homework Help

What do your students do after school when they need help with homework? Send them to CMPL’s Live Homework Help. This online service uses real tutors with specialties in various subjects and grade levels. Live Homework Help is available online from 4-11 p.m. every day. A valid CMPL resident card is required to access the service. Get started here.
